Key appointments to leading digital radio company

Leading New Zealand radio communications company CSE-Genesis has made two new key appointments to its digital mobile radio team.

Steffen Kennerley joins the company as Engineering Solutions Manager, while Stuart Dunthorne has been appointed Technical Services Manager. Steffen and Stuart both join CSE-Genesis from TeamTalk Ltd.

Steffen is a highly experienced digital mobile radio solutions and applications specialist with 21 years in the industry, the last 16 at Team Talk, New Zealand's largest land mobile service provider. An expert in Motorola's MOTOTRBO portfolio and systems architecture, he has been involved in developing and implementing some of New Zealand's largest digital mobile radio solutions, and is a passionate advocate for the future of digital radio communications.

Stuart is a leading radio systems engineer and digital mobile radio specialist who has been in the industry for nine years. He has been an early adopter of Motorola's OTA programming and radio management tools and works closely on both pre- and post-sales engineering requirements for customers.

CSE-WAF General Manager Harry Singh says the appointments are a key part of the company's plans to expand its digital mobile radio business in New Zealand, which will include the development of a number of exciting new offerings for both existing and new customers. "Steffen and Stewart will spearhead our push to implement next generation digital radio technology in this country" he says. "We see incredibly exciting times ahead and are delighted to have these two experienced industry leaders join the team to help drive our plans in the digital radio market."

CSE-Genesis is a division of CSE-W. Arthur Fisher, formed earlier this year from the merger of CSE-WAF and Genesis Communications.
